

APEGGA INVESTIGATIVE COMMITTEE VOLUNTEER POSITIONS AVAILABLE

Are you a seasoned Professional Engineer or Professional Geophysicist with ten or more years of industry experience seeking an opportunity to advance the profession by sharing your knowledge and experience?

The APEGGA Investigative Committee is looking for Professional Engineers, Geologists and Geophysicists to fill upcoming vacancies. The Investigative Committee is a statutory committee created under the EGGP Act. Its mandate is to investigate complaints against APEGGA members and Permit holders received by the Registrar's designate in accordance with the requirements of the Engineering, Geological and Geophysical Professions Act.

Qualifications

Applicants must:

- Be licensed as a P.Eng., P.Geol., or P.Geoph. with APEGGA
- Have a minimum of ten years of industry experience.
- Preference will be given to candidates with experience in residential and commercial construction, oil and gas reserves evaluation, intellectual property, and environmental practice.

Duties and Expectations of Members

The Investigative Committee meets approximately 10 times per year, once each month except July and August. Meetings are normally one-half day each, however, there are extended meetings in June and December. There are, on average, five face-to-face meetings per year, alternating between Edmonton and Calgary, and five meetings per year conducted by videoconference from APEGGA's Edmonton and Calgary offices. Authorized travel expenses will be reimbursed. In addition, investigative panel meetings may be called from time to time. Candidates should be prepared to commit up to one day per month on Committee business.

The duties and expectations of Investigative Committee members are:

- Serve a three-year term
- Attend Committee meetings regularly
- Participate in investigative panel meetings as required
- Participate in panel interviews of complainants and Members under investigation.

- Review agenda materials in preparation for monthly Committee meetings
- Be prepared to commit up to one day per month on Committee activities
